

La Kooki

Deep red with garnet hues. Cherry cola and red licorice strap with a touch of tar and roses. Delicious, fine gravelly tannins upfront keep the juicy mid palate in check. A vibrant, fruit driven wine with supple, savoury length.

LAS PIEDRAS TEMPRANILLO

FERGUSON VALLEY, GEOGRAPHE,
WESTERN AUSTRALIA ■

VINTAGE

An exceptional season marked the most spectacular Marri blossoms we've ever seen. A wet winter saw a slow start, but the sun came out on 4 September and stayed with us for the rest of the season with rain stopping in November. Summer followed with warm, lazy days resulting in a magnificent ripening period - no disease or bird pressure. Harvest started quickly with the extended family and friends pitching in to help. La Kooki's careful selection of fruit from excellent grower vineyards has resulted in wines with intense aromatics, vibrant fruit and succulent structure underpinned by natural acid.

WINEMAKING

Six short rows of Tempranillo at 52 Stones Vineyard sit at 260 m on a moderate southerly slope of deep red loam and clay over granite, cool for Geographe and ideal for steady ripening.

Early leaf removal and shoot thinning keep the vines balanced, with plump, evenly ripened bunches of bright, juicy fruit. Las Piedras, Spanish for 'the stones', was hand picked on 12 March, destemmed to open vats and wild fermented as whole berries with hand plunging. After eight days on skins it was gently pressed and matured for nine months in seasoned French oak barriques, topped with stones in November to keep them full.

La Kooki is a certified member of Sustainable Winegrowing Australia. We bottle into lightweight glass to reduce our carbon footprint.

Grown and made on Pinjarup and Wadandi Boodja.
